

VIGILANT SECURITY SERVICES

THE EX-MILITARY SECURITY PROFESSIONALS

Dear Sir/Madam

During these times of financial uncertainty, with markets in limbo and businesses facing precarious futures, Vigilant Security is well aware of the needs of our clients.

We are delighted, therefore, to be able to announce to three innovative solutions aimed at saving clients both money and time as well as pushing technological boundaries far beyond anything seen before.

Vigilant Security Services New Website:

I invite you to peruse Vigilant Security's brand new website www.vigilantsecurityservices.com

We have modernised the appearance to create a site filled with innovative information which is easy to navigate around as well as keeping our present clients and potential clients up to date with all the latest news from the Vigilant team.

Financial Value:

We understand the position many companies have been put into following the down turn in the financial markets. For that reason, we are constantly thinking of new strategies to reduce our costs and provide our clients with maximum value for money.

State of the Art CCTV:

I am both excited and delighted to be able to bring you news of pioneering state of the art CCTV technology, which saves colossal financial outlay by replacing wired CCTV with secure, portable 3.5G wireless connections to any computer or mobile telephone in the world.

This revolutionary camera is powered either from the mains, solar or wind. Protected by a wet weather cover, it is installed in any location possible and fitted with a unique sim card. The customer is then able to log into this camera, through a coded 3.5G connection, from any computer or mobile telephone in the world, enabling them to monitor, navigate and adjust the device as and when required.

This CCTV is truly ground-breaking and will save our customers many thousands of pounds by not laying cabling to link cameras to control stations.

If you may be interested in any more information please do not hesitate to contact myself or any of the team at our Head Quarters on 01387 247 842.

Yours

Henry Morley
